

Lorraine Clark - 2013

A Cal Poly graduate who raises hay and cattle in Creston with her husband, Don, and their two children. She is best known for bringing the interactive agriculture learning event, Great AGventure, to fourth graders countywide. Since its inception in 2003, the event, originally funded by a state grant, has served more than 13,000 local fourth-grade students in San Luis Obispo County. It's continued in recent years through local sponsors. Clark has served with the Cattlewomen Association since 1999. She's helped with field trips, highway cleanup, scholarships and served as Beef Promotion Chair. When asked what her hobbies are, Clark said in a statement: "My kids! gardening, riding horses, hiking, camping, fishing, drinking coffee, eating chocolate and just hanging out with the animals!"
